SOME MORE HISTORY.

THE MERCHANTS' NATIONAL BANK OF LOS ANGELES, CAL.

This is to certify that L. C. Brand, of Los Angeles, California, has deposited with this bank a certified check of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company for ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00), subject to the conditions of the following agreement:

This agreement made between L. C. Brand, of the first part, and the Tropic Improvement Association and the Glendale Improvement Association, parties of the second part.

WITNESSETH:

That the said L. C. Brand does hereby undertake to use his best efforts to procure a franchise for an electric railroad, the same to connect the City of Los Angeles with the towns of Tropic and Glendale; the said second parties on their part undertake to procure and turn over to the said Brand, free of cost to him, a suitable and sufficient right-of-way of the width named by the said Brand, along the line to be located by the said Brand. After said franchise and said right-of-way shall have been procured, the said Brand is to have the electric railway in operation from Los Angeles City to the Town of Glendale within six months, and it is hereby agreed, in the event of his failure to do so, to forfeit the sum of ten thousand dollars, this sum having this day been placed with the Merchants' National Bank, to be held by the said bank as a guarantee of good faith on the part of Brand, and the bank is hereby authorized, if the obligation hereby imposed upon the said Brand shall have been complied with, to return to him the ten thousand dollars; if on the other hand, the said second parties shall have complied with their obligations and the said Brand shall have failed to comply with his, then the ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) is hereby directed to be turned over to the said second parties for their use.

WITNESS our hands and seals this 23rd day of March, 1903.

(Signed) L. C. BRAND.
THE MERCHANTS' NATIONAL BANK OF LOS ANGELES,
W. H. HODGINS, Cashier.

Glendale, Cal., Oct. 2, 1903.
Mr. L. C. Brand,
Promoter Los Angeles and Glendale Electric Railway.

My Dear Sir:

Not having seen you for some time, I am writing you concerning the proposed line.

You never have in your official capacity as the promoter visited either myself or the Glendale Improvement Association in the interest of the projected line; all that we have is second-hand, hence some misunderstandings have occurred.

In the first place we were promised the line on the Glendale avenue side of the high school house, but when I saw you, you indicated that you had not the slightest notion of putting the line east of said building.

Second; we, through Mr. Goode and some of the Tropic committee, are promised that the line is to run up Fourth street to Glendale avenue.

IS THIS CORRECT? Kindly reply. Since none of us have ever seen you, or had any official statement from you, and you have never visited our society in the interests of said project, we feel it is time we are having something direct from headquarters.

Thirdly: I proposed in a business meeting of the right-of-way committee that since we, neither of us, the Tropic or the Glendale Improvement societies, are incorporated, and could not do business legally, to have you put your certified check into the hands of Mr. M. M. Eshelman, in escrow, as a legal guarantee for the fulfillment of your own proposal. I was voted down, the committee stating that they considered this an act indicating doubt as to your honesty. I differed, stating that you would not be implying doubt as to my honesty by demanding of me a mortgage as security for money. Since, at a meeting at which I was not present I am informed that this same question was proposed and unanimously carried.

Has this been brought to your notice? Has the check been transferred to M. M. Eshelman, instead of the Improvement societies?

Since there has never been any official communications from you to our Glendale Improvement society, you will confer a favor and very much improve our confidence in the projected electric railroad and help the collectors by replying.

You may further state IS THIS GLENDALE AVENUE AND FOURTH STREET LINE TO BE PERMANENT?

D. W. HUNT,
President Glendale Improvement Association and of Joint Committee of Right-of-Way, Tropic and Glendale.

Mr. Brand replied to this as follows:

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 9, 1903.
To the Joint Committee of the Glendale and Tropic Improvement Associations:

Gentlemen: I have just received a communication from one member of your committee which would indicate that he had very little confidence in my electric railway enterprise, and I am naturally very much surprised that any intelligent man would demand any other evidence than I have already given. I am building the road as fast as I can and will again make the statement I have often made to your committee that I will build the road over the rights-of-way you have secured and will build and operate the same on Fourth street from N street to or beyond Glendale avenue, as soon as men can do it. I am a very busy man at present and can not look up each member of the committee and give him full details as to all my future operations.

Thanking you for your interest and assistance and hoping this will be satisfactory, I am,

Yours respectfully, etc.

Vandalism

GLENDALE, CAL., June 15, 1907.

ED. NEWS: Being one of the older citizens of Glendale, and having assisted in every enterprise of progress in the valley long before the Valley Independent or its enterprising editor had anything to do with shaping its destiny, we feel tempted to reply to the mention it has made of the destroyed electric street railway which, by the way, is no uncommon event in the history of railroad tactics; has often been done before in other places, will be repeated until the time comes when corporations are educated to the point where people demand of corporations the same business integrity that individuals put into business personally. We do not believe Mr. Brand had anything to do with or say about tearing up the road, and we are credulous enough to say we have respect enough for Mr. Brand's business integrity and sagacity to believe he would not countenance any such practice; for since we have personally known and talked with him he has said "anything building up the valley aids the whole community, and anything that in any way hinders any part is detrimental to the whole section."

The truth is the business management of the Interurban Electric Railway never intended building to Glendale city but were almost compelled to do so after its repeated public promises by its representatives and finally in writing promised to do so, to secure the right of way, which right of way was the one thing urgently needed and sought for, since these rights of way are becoming very scarce and high priced near any large, important and growing city.

Such articles as that in the Valley Independent only inflame sectional feeling and strife; in fact, if I may be permitted to express an opinion, the paper itself is not needed and is another cause of controversy and ill feeling, if not strife, in a peaceful community. The editor, as we all and he knows, made a valid and legitimate sale of his proprietorship of any paper in Glendale to the present editors of the GLENDALE NEWS, with a moral if not a legal understanding that he was to deliver up his influence—"good will"—to his successors in business. This needs no argument, but is an axiomatic truth. By all honor he should have refrained from entering into any competition as an editor of any paper for two or three years.

As to business, there has been, and is, some slight competition between the Boulevard and the old city. This no fair-minded man objects to. It, however, is to be remembered and noted that the people of Glendale city bought and paid for the ground on the Boulevard on which the High School building stands long before any electric railway was projected. Second, it is to be noted that it was a "fraternal order" of the old city of Glendale and its members who first proposed and secured subscriptions for the first business building erected on Fourth Boulevard.

Mr. Editor, you may not know these historical facts, but they are matters of record. Does this look like kicking against the Boulevard?

To my knowledge, people of the old town, while desiring to see it grow and prosper, have never interfered or hindered any improvement on the Boulevard. We intend to do all we can honestly, openly, legitimately to sustain and improve our town and only demand fair treatment. We believe and have acted on the principle enunciated at the beginning of this writing to which no loyal citizen can object, viz: that any improvement is beneficial to the whole section. In harmony there is power. We are not interested in "pulling down," but in "building up."

Now the excuses offered by the Valley Independent for the injustice done every one in the valley simply denotes a feeling of touchiness (for want of a better or more expressive word) on this point by the editor.

My dear sir, there is no excuse; it is supreme vandalism to destroy or injure any public utility in any way and demands extreme censure from the public, no matter by whom committed.

The time is not far distant when integrity will be demanded of all corporations, politicians and city officials, as well as editors. Short cuts to glory on doubtful premises will be as unsavory as obtaining money under false pretense.

Very sincerely, in the interest of progress and fair play,

D. W. HUNT.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Ezra Parker and his daughter, Lucille, the graduating class of the Grammar school enjoyed a most delightful day at Griffith Park on Tuesday, the 18th.

TRUSTEES MEETING.

Demands as follows were referred to the finance committee:

F. R. Sinclair, $80.00 for salary as street superintendent; Verdugo Springs Water Company, $6.50 for water; Riggs & Sherer, $17.25 for publishing and $9.50 for job work; L. F. Hadrich, $20 for rent; G. B. Woodberry, $30.00 for salary; Frederick Baker, $60.00 for salary and typewriting.

Demands amounting to $128.19 were reported back from the finance committee and orders drawn for the same. The finance committee were given further time to report on Demand No. 223, being a bill of the Electric Lighting company. A communication was received from L. C. Brand asking for information as to the number of fire hydrants the city desired to put in on the Miradero Water system. Referred to committee on fire protection. An application from Richard Livingston, per C. D. Thom, to do work by private contract on a part of J. K. and L. streets, and was referred to the public works committee in conjunction with the city engineer.

A communication was received and read from Sydney Dell, an attorney, resident in Glendale, protesting against the proposed improvement of Fifth street under the Vroman act and asking that said work be done under the Local Improvement Act of 1901, which provides for the issue of local year bonds for such improvements. The matter was discussed at some length and laid over for one week, and the street superintendent was requested to interview property owners and ascertain their wishes generally in the matter. A bid was received from the publishers of the Glendale News to enter into a contract for the city printing for the coming year. The matter was referred to a committee consisting of Messrs. Anderson and Watson, to report at next meeting.

Mr. T. C. Jones made application for permission to sell fireworks in the Harrison building on Glendale avenue, and the same was granted, conditional on the payment of the usual license.

An ordinance adopting specifications for horse was taken up, read for the third time and passed. Mr. Stanley was granted permission to burn the grass around his building on Glendale avenue.

On motion it was decided to call a meeting of citizens on Monday evening, June 24th, at 6 o'clock, to assemble prepared to burn grass and weeds on vacant lots, as the same is a menace to public safety.

The city marshal was instructed to prohibit the firing of crackers and fireworks in the City of Glendale, except on the Fourth of July.

A resolution was adopted appointing W. L. Nelson dog catcher for the city.

On motion an ordinance was read the first and second times, declaring the intention of the city to open a sixty-foot street along the Child's Tract line from the city limits on the south to Second street; thence on a curve northeasterly to Verdugo road, and fixing as the assessment district which shall bear the expense of opening (not improving) said road, the territory between A street and Verdugo road. This will be taken up for final passage at the next meeting.

Five lots in the Boynton Tract, Sixth and A, belonging to Willis R. Norton, were sold during the past week and improvements will shortly be made on the same.

Mr. Peterson, one of our recent comers, has begun the erection of a residence on the Kate C. Palmer tract, A street below Fourth.

A Good Work

We are glad to note the good work being done by the California Voice in publishing the facts about notorious resorts in the neighborhood of the county jail. It calls attention to the state law which makes it a "misdemeanor to own, rent, lease or occupy any house or building for immoral purposes," and points out the fact that the Oak saloon, with private room attachments, 252 New High street, Los Angeles, is church property! The addresses of a number of other disreputable resorts are given, and the Voice threatens to publish a list of the owners, among whom are an official of the county, prominent society ladies and at least one church deacon. It is a grand work and requires courage to carry it out. The Voice should have the support of all the decent people of Los Angeles.

Summing Up

Our people should bear in mind the fact, developed by documents published in this issue, that from inception to conclusion, they have dealt with L. C. Brand and not with the railroad company. Mr. Brand stated "I will build the road" and "operate the same on Fourth street from N street east to or beyond Glendale avenue." But it will be noticed that in the letter which is a reply to one written him by Dr. Hunt, he omitted to answer the question: "Is this Glendale avenue line to be permanent?"

That the money raised by the people of Tropic and Glendale was paid to Mr. Brand and the papers conveying rights of way, etc., were made out in his name and delivered to him, are indisputable facts; and these facts explain why Mr. Brand, altho not an official of the railroad company, was able to dictate terms to them. The report made by Mr. McMillan to Mr. Huntington, by which the latter gentleman was misinformed, was an excuse, not a reason.

"Under Which King?"

The defence of the taking up of the Fourth street line after night (which in itself was a confession of wrong) which is made by the Independent last week, is a disgrace to journalism and clearly indicates the source of the editor's inspiration.

It was an indefensible act; and if the allegations made in lieu of excuse were as true as they are false, the act would still be a disgrace to the corporation that committed it.

The assertion that this paper has attempted to stir up strife between the sections of our city cannot be justified by a line that we have published, and we challenge anyone to quote such a line. As a matter of fact, we have not retaliated in any way against the unfair treatment accorded us by a combine on the Boulevard when we took charge of this paper. We have dealt with the people of our valley as individuals, not as classes, and regardless of their place of abode. At the present time, however, we do not care where they live, nor what their previous condition or complexion, the people of this valley are divided into two classes with the lines clearly drawn. They are those who defend the act of the railroad company and those who condemn it. There is no neutral ground. "Under which king, Bezonian?"

The Case of Maud

"The GLENDALE NEWS under the management of Riggs & Sherer, has had its share in trying to create dissensions and factions in Glendale, and its references to 'Maud' were anything but becoming to a real newspaper."—Valley Independent.

Was it Wackford Squeers who said "Here's richness for you?" By reference to our index we find that the only allusion to Maud is contained in the following touching little poem which we ground out one day last winter:

THE DINKY CAR

The snow it lies on the mountain top,
And the liar he lies elsewhere,
But the dinky car curtains go flippity flop
And the wind it blows as 't would never stop,
And the passengers they swear.

But the dinky car bobs up and down,
As it travels to and fro,
And the passengers to Glendale town
Clutch tighter yet the wind-swept gown
As they glance at the chilly snow.

The motorman notes as mote he may,
And the passengers shiver and shake,
And the shirt waist lady who eke was gay
Has suddenly ceased to have something to say,
And begins in her boots to quake.

Oh, dinky car that was surnamed Maud,
Come back to your jiving crew;
You had faults we know and we called you fraud,
Your virtues we ever forgot to laud,
But there were two sides to you!
And the next day it turned warm.

It is noticeable that the reference to "Maud" made herein is of the most respectful nature; nay, indeed 'tis more, it verges on the affectionate. Now this ought to satisfy the enthusiastic friends of Maud, whether on the Boulevard or on the Avenue; but for fear that it is not satisfactory, we will attempt a little laudation:

Lo, here is Maud!
Mark you her graceful poise;
Fourteen small girls and boys
'Crowded, can ride her!
Never a mule or car
Swift as her jerklets are;
Comets and lightning's flash
Slow are beside her!

Bow ye the knee in praise,
For small mercies thankful,
Ended Maud's useful days;
Tears shed—a tank full!

There, now, we flatter ourself that we have done the handsome thing by Maud and have shown our sympathy for her friends and admirers.

"Requiescat in pace;" which being translated means, Give us a rest!

Re L. C. Brand

By reference to the documents and correspondence which we publish this week, it will be seen that in contributing their money for the building of the electric road, the citizens of Tropic and Glendale did not deal with any officials of the road, but always with Mr. L. C. Brand. It was he who made the proposition to build to the "town of Glendale" and to "Fourth and Glendale avenue." In no sense was there any "town of Glendale" at that time anywhere west of the High School, and yet Mr. Brand refused to put the road to the east of the High School as was at first proposed. Under pressure from the committee, however, or from Dr. Hunt, its chairman, he assented, as will be seen by his letter, to "build and operate the same on Fourth street from N street east to or beyond Glendale avenue." He did not, however, consider Dr. Hunt's question as to whether this Glendale avenue and Fourth street line was to be permanent! It is evident that he never intended that it should be so; and yet there are those who assert that Mr. Brand has worked for the building up of Glendale! He has worked for the building up of the section in which his immediate interests lie, and has been willing to do it by any means in his power and at the expense of every other section of our valley.

His last move in securing the taking up of the Fourth street line is very apparently the culmination of his plans from the beginning. That it will work out to either his personal benefit or to that of the railroad company we do not believe. There is already a noticeable falling off in the number of passengers on the Glendale line and, regardless of what happens in the future, this decrease in patronage will continue permanently, unless the line is restored. In those early days of the road's history, Mr. Brand had the handling of the Sanitarium deal also, and made some threats about moving that even, if the Glendale avenue people did not stop their opposition to his simple wiles.

IN THE WEB-FOOT COUNTRY.

II

Marshfield, Ore., (Coos Bay),
June 2, 1907.

Editor News:

As the bird flies this town is five miles distant from the ocean; as the ship sails it is fourteen. Crossing the bar, at the entrance to the bay, the ship's course is northeasterly a distance of nine miles, whence it tacks abruptly southward to the head of the bay, where, on its west shore, the port stands. With the exception of Empire, it is the oldest town on the bay, as it is the largest, having in North Bend, three miles down the bay, on the west shore, a close rival. Of the two towns the latter is, no doubt, the more progressive. Ten years ago it was a settlement of a score or less of families, now it is an incorporated city with a population of several thousand and is reaching out for the control of the business of the bay. In this, however, North Bend has a stalwart rival in its elder sister, Marshfield, at the head of the bay. However, as either city can only grow, or extend its limits along the bay front, in the direction of the other, if they continue to grow in the future as they have in the past, it will not be many years before they will grow together, when it will not be possible to distinguish where the interests of one, as distinct from the other, begins or leaves off. This is practically the case now. The wharfage and business front of Marshfield, built and in process of building extends along the west shore line of the bay from its head toward a distance of a mile and a half. The wharfage and business frontage of North Bend, built and in process of building, extends from the "Bend," along the same shore line up the bay, a distance of about a mile. The intervening gap of two miles or more will be filled, ultimately, with new, additional enterprises. Thus will the two towns in time present a united, solid front to the commerce of the world, and receive the common and comprehensive name of Coosbay.

Including that of its "fore-arm," the bay has a frontage, or shore line, on the peninsula, which is the site of the two towns, of about fifteen miles. The peninsula over which the towns are building and extending, embraces an area of about fifteen square miles. This area is covered for the most part with the trees or stumps of the trees of its native forest and a dense second growth.

It is the boast of North Bend that the monthly pay roll of its employees, engaged in the lumber industry, is $60,000, and from appearances the boast is not an idle one. The largest concern in the business is that of the Simpson Lumber company. Its timber tracts contiguous to the bay run into many millions feet, almost entirely untouched. Its present supply is from "stumpage."

Besides sawmills there are shingle mills, sash and door factories, ship-yards and veneering factories. Of veneering, made from maple and myrtle, principally, there is almost a shipload now on the factory's wharf awaiting shipment to the San Francisco market. The product from the myrtle and white cedar, native to the "Coosbay" region, excels in beauty and quality. For tint and polish it is excelled by no other wood. The white cedar is used extensively in finishes and furniture making.

The next largest concern in the lumber business on the bay is that of C. A. Smith & Co., of Marshfield, operating for many years in Wisconsin and Minnesota. Its proportions are also extensive.

Besides the lumber industry that of coal is now, as it has been for years, of leading importance. It is drawn upon heavily by both Portland and San Francisco. It is of the best lignite and lies in a vast circular belt on either side of the bay and extends from Coos Head to the Coquille river.

With the exception of a short line of railroad from Marshfield to Myrtle Point, due south about 25 miles, and a stage line to Roseburg on the Southern Pacific line to Portland, the only means of transportation locally are gasoline launches. Of these there are at least fifty, plying the bay and its numerous inlets in all directions and at all times.

These little whizzing, bustling craft are really the attractive feature of the bay and its tributaries. They take the place of the electric car (not yet in evidence here) in almost every line of locomotion and transportation. Farmers market their produce with them, and children go to and return from school in them. Fancy a little upholstered parlor, skimming the placid waters of the bay picking up from queer little landings the school children of the district and putting them ashore in front of their little "red" school houses—gathering them up in the morning and returning them in the evening.

In one of my trips out from Marshfield up Coos river one morning in one of these swift little launches we had the "school marm" aboard. On reaching her destination she had gathered about her nearly a score of youngsters from 6 to 16 and was met at the schoolhouse landing by as many more who had arrived similarly from up the river. Together they marched off to the little schoolhouse. There were 36 of them, representing the first to the eighth grades.

A project is under consideration for uniting all the country districts along the bay inlets, the attendance of all which is gathered up and returned in the same manner and by the same methods, into one graded school to be provided with a suitable building at a convenient point, and suitably equipped with teachers. It struck me as a little the quaintest proposition ever in this country.

The same plan of operations prevails in conducting the dairy business of the bay and its tributaries. I should explain that there are a half dozen or more inlets to the bay, or tide-water sloughs, extending to all points of the compass eastwardly, that are navigable for miles, with the fleet of gasoline launches; that on the narrow strips of bottom land along these streams there are numerous dairy ranches. On one trip up the Coos and "Mellcoma" branch of same, "The boat halted at 21 milking stations and put off 73 ten-gallon milk cans. This was in the evening. On the boat's return the next morning the same cans, filled with milk, were gathered up and delivered to the creamers at Marshfield. In the meantime I had some sport trout fishing.

More anon.

KEEP THE MONEY AT HOME.

The financial strength of a community depends largely in the centering of all trade at home. It is the keeping of all the money among its own industries and business men that makes the town prosperous and strong. But the habit of going out of town for merchandise is practiced more or less in every community. In the hope of saving a few cents goods are purchased from out of town merchants. Every business enterprise in a community is dependent upon every other business enterprise of that community and upon its inhabitants. And the degree of prosperity which obtains in any community is dependent upon the support which every citizen gives to the business of his home town. It is simply a small edition of the principle of the protective principle which has made the prosperity great.—Exchange.

FAMILY REUNION.

The pretty new home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Byrkit on B street was the scene on Tuesday of a most happy family reunion when the Rev. W. S. Blackburn and his wife sat at the banquet table surrounded by twenty members of their family, including three sons, three daughters, three sons-in-law, and eight grand children.

Long-stemmed and white carnations mingled with the delicate greenery of dainty ferns graced the loaded table and happy laughter and children's gay chatter mingled charmingly with the ring of silver and dainty china as the tempting menu was thoroughly discussed. Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Blackburn, of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Dow and children, of Ellwood, Nebraska, and W. C. Blackburn, of Boise, Idaho. The event was one of great joy to all present and will long be remembered as such by all who participated.

M. E. Church Notes

An impressive sermon was preached to our people last Sabbath by Rev. J. B. Green of Los Angeles.

A company of about thirty from Los Angeles was joined here on Friday by a few of our people and a day's outing of great pleasure was experienced at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Somes.

Children's Day service Sabbath morning. A good program; all-day service. You are invited.

In Flowery Setting

A bower of glorious California bloom was the First Presbyterian church on Thursday afternoon, when at four o'clock beautiful Ednah Cole Ballantyne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Ballantyne, became the bride of Dr. Chester Lee Magee, of Los Angeles.

Dr. Wm. S. Young, assisted by Dr. S. Lawrence Ward, officiated, while Prof. Frank Colby rendered exquisite nuptial music.

Under an archway, to which masses of feathery fern, stately palms, gladioli and showers of sweet peas, lent their grace and beauty, stood the bridal party as the impressive ring service was read. Little Ethel Palmer carried the ring as it lay in the heart of a waxy magnolia and Miss Ray Hannah, of Los Angeles, effectively gowned in cloudy batiste, made a charming bridesmaid. Dr. Hunter acted as best man.

The bride was gowned with a tasteful girlish simplicity that enhanced her loveliness, in sheerest embroidery built over shimmering white silk, her bouquet a shower of lilies-of-the-valley, with maiden hair fern.

After the ceremony a wedding supper followed congratulations at the home of the bride's parents on Glendale avenue, attended by the bridal party, relatives and a few intimate friends, with the out-of-town guests.

The display of costly presents attested well the popularity of the young couple.

Much credit is due Miss Ruth Byram and Miss Ida M. Waite for the beauty and artistic effect in the church decorations.

After an absence of several days in a trip through the north, Dr. and Mrs. Magee will be at home to their friends in a handsome new home on Forty-third street, Los Angeles.

Among the out-of-town guests were included: Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ballantyne, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Paulin, Mr. C. J. Ellis, Prof. and Mrs. Frank Colby, Miss Annie Gillingham, Mrs. Wm. Commary and daughter Jennie, the Misses Genevieve and Winifred Shaw, all of Los Angeles, and Dr. and Mrs. Cummins of Highland Park, and Miss Emma Sanderson, of San Diego.

THE PROPOSITION OF THE LOS ANGELES RAILWAY CO.

After several months of persistent effort on the part of Messrs. E. D. Goode and R. A. Blackburn, the committee appointed at a mass meeting some time ago to endeavor to secure a written proposition from the Los Angeles Railway company for a road to Glendale, branching off from the Eagle Rock line, success, as far as the preliminaries are concerned, has at last crowned their efforts. The committee called a mass meeting Tuesday evening at the Methodist church, which was largely attended. Mr. J. C. Sherer as chairman of the former meeting which created the committee, called the meeting to order and presided.

In the absence of Mr. Prosser Penn the former secretary, Mr. F. R. Sinclair was elected secretary of the meeting.

Mr. Goode read the proposition which is in the form of an agreement between the people of Glendale and the Los Angeles Railway company, as parties of the first and second part, on which the latter agrees to build, equip and operate an electric railway from a point on the Eagle Rock line where it crosses Verdugo road, over a route following Verdugo road to a point mid way between Third and Fourth streets thence turning westward over a private right-of-way to B street, Glendale. The work to begin within 60 days after the amount of the bonus has been put in escrow, and to be completed within eight months from the date of beginning. On the other hand, the people are to raise a bonus of $20,000 within 30 days of the date of the contract. The committee asked for instructions and on motion of Mr. Parcher, a committee of three was appointed to formulate the instructions. The chairman appointed Messrs. Parcher, Wells and Goode, and a recess was declared until the committee should be ready to report. When the meeting was called to order again, the committee on instructions submitted a report in which were embodied several points in regard to fares, transfers, direct and frequent service, etc. which were adopted by the meeting as instructions to the committee who will endeavor to get these points covered in the agreement.

Mr. McKoon, of Los Angeles, stopping temporarily in Glendale, spoke in favor of making arrangements for automobile service between Los Angeles and Glendale. He thought that such service and a fare of 25 cents for round trip could be procured.

The meeting was harmonious and even enthusiastic and adjourned subject to the call of the committee.

BURGLARY.

In reference to our caption of our railroad article last week, we are asked, "Can a man steal that which is his own?" Most assuredly he can; and men have served terms in the penitentiary for doing so. A man has only a limited right to his own, when another has a lien upon it. A man may burglarize his own house when his creditors have an attachment on it, but he suffers the penalty when caught. A debtor who, while in possession of his own property, wilfully destroys it and lessens his creditor's security, is liable to the law. The people of Glendale have an interest in the Fourth street railway line, which the Pacific Electric company took away at night. Not a moral interest only, but a pecuniary interest, bought with money. A individual doing a similar act under like circumstances would be looked upon by everybody as a criminal, and would soon be behind prison bars, or be an outlaw from justice. Why a corporation and the officials of a corporation giving orders for the act, should be deemed any less guilty than the individual committing a similar act, is one of those conundrums which confront us from time to time, and finding no satisfactory reply, we turn Socialists!

The only explanation of the fact that the act of the railway company may go unpunished, is found in the fact that in California no law gets upon our statute books which is not acceptable to the corporations.

KITCHEN SHOWER.

Much ingenuity, artistic skill and many loving thoughts on the part of the Sisters of the P. E. O. resulted in a daintily appointed kitchen shower on Monday afternoon from two until five at the home of Mrs. Dr. R. E. Chase on Fourth street, given in honor of Miss Ednah Cole Ballantyne, whose marriage to Dr. C. S. Magee in the near future was an open secret.

During the early afternoon the ladies hemstitched fine linen towels, each embroidering her work with her own initial to the delight of the sweet bride-to-be. Very quickly it seemed came the moment for the beauty of the dining room to be disclosed and a bevy of interested sisters clustered about as the door was thrown back revealing a symphony in reds and greens.

To a gay Japanese parasol, suspended from the ceiling was fastened many strands of red satin ribbon thickly strewn with tiny bells. Beneath on the table rested a great bowl of crimson geraniums surrounded by the packages held by the ends of the ribbon. The sweet chime of bells mingled with the happy laughter as Miss Ballantyne untied each parcel, containing some kitchen utensil and a loving message in quotation, or original verse with the card of the donor.

The bride's apt and quick remarks were a great delight as she disclosed each gift. Later a most delicious little luncheon was served, and thoroughly enjoyed.

BOARD OF TRADE.

The Board held its regular meeting last Saturday evening at the City hall. The secretary made a report as to the condition of the treasury and the general condition of the organization. The president gave a report of the meetings of the executive committee. Among other business reported on was the receipt of the $100 left over from the Shriners' Reception fund, and the re-appropriation of the same sum for the advertising of Glendale in the forthcoming issue by the N. E. A. of their Southern California Guide book. On motion it was decided that $50 be appropriated to the fund for securing automobile or other service on Fourth street between Glendale avenue and Brand boulevard. Mr. Rogers, the secretary of the board, presented his resignation which was accepted and Mr. G. H. Barager was elected secretary in his place.

THE GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

As stated in our account of the exercises last week, the school turned out a class of twenty-seven, by far the largest graduating class in its history; there being only fifteen in the class last year.

The school census of this year shows 429 children of school age (5 to 17) in the district. The total enrollment was 315 this year as against 227 last year, and the average attendance 247 against 181. Six teachers have been employed the past year, which number will be increased to eight next year. This will necessitate the furnishing of the two extra rooms at a probable cost of about $600 and with the increased enrollment various other expenditures will no doubt have to be made, of which the tax payers will be duly informed.

CORRECTION.

In our account of the graduating exercises of the High school last week we should have stated that there were four medals conferred upon the members of the Eighth grade for "Excellent Scholarship," instead of one. Of these, Lysandro Olivas received one and one each was received by the following named girls of the class: Maude Stutsman, Berenice Williams and Evelyn Ryan.

DEATH OF E. L. CHENEY.

Elapy L. Cheney was born at Sparta, Mich., May 31, 1876. He was married to Miss Hattie Kenyon at Grand Rapids, Mich., June 1, 1902.

Mr. Cheney, feeling the need of a change, came with his wife to California in 1903 and stopped in Los Angeles until they moved to Glendale two years ago last March. The young couple started the store on Glendale avenue below Fourth. Mr. Cheney going daily to Los Angeles, where he was employed by the electric lighting company, and Mrs. Cheney working very hard to attend to the very good business which they soon built up here.

Mr. Cheney continued at work long after he should have given up, as his health has been very poorly for a year or two. Last August he gave up, however, and went to a sanitarium for awhile but without receiving the hoped-for relief. He died at 9 p. m. Friday, June 14th. The body was embalmed and shipped to his former home in Sparta accompanied by Mrs. Kenyon. Before shipment services were held at the Methodist church. The Rev. C. R. Norton officiating.

Mrs. Cheney, who is well-known to our people as an energetic and particularly bright and cheerful woman, has borne up bravely in her great affliction and has the sincere sympathy of the community.

LA CRESCENTA.

A. L. Aylesworth has been confined to his bed during the past week.

Miss Stephenson of Garvanza has been engaged as school teacher for the ensuing year.

A generous check to be applied on the road building between La Crescenta and Glendale has been received by the road committee from Mr. William Krug of Omaha.

Berkeley, June 6, 1907.

June twenty-fourth will mark the opening of the annual Summer session at the University of California.

The session for this year promises well. There will be two eminent English educators on the faculty: Professor John Adams, of the University of London, and Professor John McTaggart, of Trinity College, Cambridge.

Dr. McTaggart is a leading English philosopher. His work on "Some Dogmas of Religion," has been the topic of discussion during the present year in the Philosophical Union. He is a fellow of the British Academy, and holds high rank in the English-speaking educational world.

Dr. William MacDonald of Brown University will lecture on American History, dealing in one course with the organization of our government after the adoption of the constitution and our political history down to the Civil War, and in another course with the interesting period of the war and the reconstruction following. George Parker Winslip, the librarian of the John Carter Brown Library, of Brown University, will be a second member of the History department. Mr. Winslip will lecture on his specialty, i. e., Spanish-American history, dealing particularly with the conquest and colonization of Spanish America.

Professor Simon Newcomb will be here from the U. S. Naval observatory at Washington, D. C. His first degree was taken from Harvard university in 1858, and since that time he has received scholastic honors from the leading American institutions and from English and Continental universities. In the department of French, Professor William A. Nitze, of Amherst College will lecture on the "Classical Drama of the Seventeenth Century." He participated year before last in the summer session of the University of Chicago. Professor Clifford H. Moore, of Harvard university, will discuss the Religion and Worship of the Greeks and Romans. He will be the only member in the Latin department. He will conduct a course important for teachers of history as well as classical teachers on the Roman Historians to Tacitus.

An interesting feature of the session will be the school in library methods under the directorship of Miss Mary Letitia Jones, who was for a long time in charge of the Los Angeles library. Her previous supervision of the summer library school here at Berkeley was eminently satisfactory. She will be assisted by the regular library staff and by trained persons from outside libraries.

TROPICO

Miss Lucie Bettannier of Pasadena was the guest of Miss Ruby Borthick the past week.

Charles Peckham departed Saturday on a business trip to San Francisco and will be absent several weeks.

Mrs. Albert Harris of San Fernando is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Light of Tropicco avenue.

Mr. Normart has begun the erection of a one-story eight-room house on the Wilkinson tract near the tile factory.

Mrs. Harriet Brewster of Los Angeles, who was in attendance at the Malcom-Kirkham nuptials, is the guest of Mrs. Hal H. Davenport.

Mrs. Henry Webster of Whittier and Mrs. Charles Webster of Los Angeles, were the guests of their sister, Mrs. Alfred Engelhardt, this week.

Mrs. Leonia Bettannier of Pasadena, accompanied by her son and daughter Gene Bettannier and Miss Lucie Bettannier, were in attendance at the Malcom-Kirkham wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Hal H. Davenport have returned from an automobile trip to Azusa and Irwindale, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Lunn, parents of Mrs. Davenport.

Miss Minnie Hughes, president of the Norwalk W. R. C. and past matron of the Norwalk O. E. S., with her sister, Miss Lulu Hughes, were the guests of Miss Freda Borthick last week.

Mr. Slack, who lived on Repostia court, has gone to San Fernando, where he will take charge of a large ranch. Mr. Winebrenner and family have moved into the house vacated by Mr. Slack.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto D. Brouse of Covina were in attendance at the wedding ceremony of Miss Madeleine Malcom and Mr. John Lee Kirkham. Mr. and Mrs. Brouse were former residents of Tropicco.

The Tropicco Reservoir Company has just completed putting a cover over the large reservoir constructed a year or so ago, just north of Ninth street. There were over three carloads of lumber used for this purpose.

C. C. Cushing, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. L. L. Cushing and sister, Miss Elizabeth Cushing, have returned from Santa Ana, where Mr. Cushing has completed a term of teaching in the schools of Santa Ana.

Rev. D. M. Stuart, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Tropicco, who was in attendance at the General Presbyterian Assembly, which convened there in May and who also visited throughout the East, returned home Saturday and occupied the pulpit Sunday at both services.

The grass fires in the hills back of Tropicco last Sunday caused a rise in temperature, but appear to have done no serious damage. A large quantity of hay on the Glassell ranch, belonging to Mr. Cannon, seemed doomed to certain destruction for a while, but a sudden change in the direction of the wind caused the fire to stop when a few yards away and the stacks were saved.

Miss Emma Hagerty, one of the victims of the Second street gas explosion, which occurred the 13th of February in Los Angeles, and who has been at the home of Mrs. David H. Imler the past two months, returned to the hospital Wednesday. Miss Hagerty's surgeon deemed an operation on the bones of the right foot and both ankles necessary, which at the time of the accident could not be treated, owing to the crushed and mangled condition of the limbs. Miss Hagerty will be returned to Mrs. Imler's home and care, when dismissed from the hospital.

Base Ball at Tropicco

The employees of the Western Art Tile Works have organized two rival base ball teams and played a game last Wednesday afternoon, resulting as follows: Press Room Team 8; Kiln Room Team 2. Guy Maxwell, Clarence Whitridge, and William Barckdall are all credited with home runs. The teams will play every Wednesday afternoon on the grounds just west of the tile factory and everybody is invited to witness the sport.

MRS. SCHEU ENTERTAINS.

"Las Flores," the beautiful villa of Mrs. C. H. Scheu on Central avenue, was the scene of a charming social function Wednesday afternoon, when Mrs. Scheu entertained the members of the "Think for Yourself" club. The hostess read a carefully prepared paper on the aim and object of the club, after which an interesting discussion followed in which all of the members gave brief remarks, led by Mrs. William Harvey, Jr.

This club, which was recently launched under such propitious conditions, comprises some of the brightest and most clever of the social leaders in the valley.

MALCOLM-KIRKHAM NUPTIALS.

Guests began to arrive early at the First Presbyterian church, on Laurel street, Tuesday evening to witness the marriage ceremony of Miss Madeleine Malcom, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. William Malcom and Mr. John Lee Kirkham, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kirkham.

Since the announcement of the engagement of Miss Malcom and Mr. Kirkham society of Tropicco has been on the qui vive awaiting the nuptials of these popular young people, whose respective families are among the most prominent and influential in Tropicco. Tuesday, June 18th, was selected as the date upon which to plight their vows, as it was the twenty-second anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. John Kirkham, parents of the groom. The interior of the First Presbyterian church was most tastefully decorated by Miss Hickman. Graceful palm fronds were arranged throughout the church, forming a pleasing background. English ivy twined throughout the choir loft, was studded with clusters of petals of hydrangea. The chancel was banked in ferns, and quantities of hydrangea, while fragrant magnolia blossoms were arranged around the altar. The pews were marked with piamosas and hydrangea. Into this bower of beauty and fragrance the bridal party entered shortly after eight o'clock, following the rendering of that sweet, old love song, "Because" by Miss Eralena Ayers, who stood in the choir loft surrounded by brilliant decorations and sang in that sweet, girlish melody, which always delights Miss Ayer's audiences. As the ushers, E. S. Morgan and F. C. Richardson, swung the doors open, Miss Anna Ausparger began Lohengrin. The four ushers advanced Frank Stokes, Jr., of Pasadena; Fritz Calkins, Roy Williamson and Harry Owen of Los Angeles, members of the D. O. Fraternity of Throop Polytechnic of which they and the groom are members. As they approached the altar Rev. D. M. Stuart, pastor of the church, advanced to meet them. Dainty winsome Marjory Imler in frock of white silk mull with lace trimmings, walked slowly down the aisle bearing a handsome magnolia bloom which contained the wedding rings of the bride and groom, for the double ring ceremony was used in consummating the romance of this happy couple.

John Lee Kirkham, the tall, handsome groom, with his cousin, Scott Lee, Jr., of Los Angeles, as best man next advanced to the altar, after which the bridesmaid, Miss Ruby Borthick, in a dainty gown of blue mull, slowly approached, carrying a bouquet of sweet peas.

Then as the strains of Lohengrin swelled on the perfumed air, Miss Madeleine Malcom, the beautiful bride, slowly advanced to where Rev. Stuart and the bridal party awaited her coming. Miss Malcom, who is tall and graceful, wore a handsome gown of white tulle with a cross of diamonds, an heirloom of the bride's family, enhanced the beauty of the bride. The only ornament worn by her was the D. O. pin of the fraternity in compliment to the members of the society of which the groom is a member and of which a number of the members were present. The bride carried a firm bouquet of white carnations and a beautiful, dainty white Bible, the gift of Mrs. E. M. Cooper, grandmother of the bride.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party retired from the altar to the strains of Mendelssohn. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents on Central avenue, at which only the relatives and immediate friends of the families of the bride and groom were present.

Under the artistic touch of Mrs. Alfred Engelhardt, assisted by Mrs. Marvin Connelly and Mrs. James R. Maxwell, the residence was transformed into a veritable bower of beauty, with its myriad of bright-hued blossoms, trailing greenery and graceful palm fronds.

Receiving with the bride and groom were Mr. and Mrs. William Malcom, Mr. and Mrs. John Kirkham, Mrs. E. M. Cooper, Mrs. Alfred Engelhardt, Mrs. David Imler, Mrs. Mervin Connelly, Mrs. James R. Maxwell, and Miss Hickman. Miss Freda Borthick presided at the punch bowl.

The bride cut the wedding cake with the knife of the handsome carving set presented by the members of the D. O. Fraternity.

As the bride tossed her bouquet among her friends, they simply showered her and the groom with rice. Miss Freda Borthick caught the bouquet, then as the admiring friends divided the pretty blossoms, the bride and groom slipped quietly away. An hour later a telephone message was received from Mr. and Mrs. John Lee Kirkham announcing their arrival in Los Angeles, and that they would leave for a two weeks' trip to Colorado. Many handsome presents were received. Mr. and Mrs. Malcom presented them a valuable lot on Brand boulevard, upon which Mr. and Mrs. John Kirkham will erect, as a gift, a pretty bungalow for the happy young couple.

THE FULLER CONCERT.

Glendale has had so many excellent concerts in the last few months that our people have raised for themselves a pretty high standard and are content with nothing that does not come up to it. The large audience that gathered in Masonic hall last Wednesday evening was composed for the large part of music lovers who were confident that a musical treat was in store for them, and in this they were not disappointed. The concert was given under the auspices of and for the benefit of the Tuesday Afternoon club, and was directed by Prof. E. S. Fuller, who is to be credited with bringing to Glendale some artists who would grace any stage.

It will be seen by a glance at the program that the selections were of a high class; but every number was rendered in a manner most pleasing to the really critical audience. The violinist, Mr. Schertzinger, is a performer of remarkable skill, and his playing of most difficult parts was greatly appreciated, and enthusiastically encored. Miss Constance Loucks Balfour, soprano, delighted the audience with the performance of a fine voice developed under the care of some of the best teachers of Europe.

The singing of Mr. Henry Balfour, baritone, was also greatly enjoyed. As for Mr. Fuller, his many friends were glad to hear what was probably the best work he has ever done here and to note the continued and growing excellence of his performance.

Among the numerous social events incident to commencement time, was the pretty "at home" given by the Misses Valentine, Newhall, Lamson and Harrison to honor the faculty and senior class. The guests were met at the car by a spacious tally-ho, which brought them to the Valentine home, which had been converted into a dreamland of flowers and twinkling lights. The evening was spent in hilarious games of "Block" and "Pit," in which Miss Traphagen carried off the ladies' prize and Mr. Tower won the gentlemen's prize on a draw—"a lovely Teddy Bear." After the games delicious refreshments were served and before Sunday morning the guests were homeward bound, feeling that they had enjoyed themselves to the limit.
